Gospel Reflection Fourth Sunday of Advent

We have a tendency to see the future in two ways. One is to hate the future, to regard the way the world is going as pretty much hostile and out of control, at best drifting, and probably getting worse all the time. And our solution is to withdraw from it, probably seeking refuge in the past, maybe a past church, or a past world, or a past country that isn't here anymore.

The other way we handle the future is to privatize it. And here, we do lots of thinking about the future, but this tends to be pretty defensive in nature. We think about the future, and our children's future, and we plan, and we prepare contingencies and map things out, but we're mostly concerned about how we're going to protect ourselves and our kids from all the hardships and tricks that the future is going to have in store. Maybe we can make our futures okay if we work hard enough.

In both of these scenarios it's hard to see the future as a stage on which great things are still going to happen in this world. Perhaps even as a place where God is still going to make good on some of the things he has promised to us.

We sometimes think only children, or young people who'll learn better, would look at the future this way. And yet, that is the approach to the future we hear about during Advent. Advent is all about the future. We know it's a season of expectation, but not just expectation of Christmas. Advent is getting us ready to think about the whole future, the future that stretches out from now until the second coming of Jesus, a second coming that we are preparing for and waiting for just as surely as we're waiting for and preparing for Christmas.

Our tendency, of course, is to think about our religion as centered in the past, full of events that have all already worked themselves out. We hear today's first reading from the prophet Micah, foretelling the messiah, and we say, well of course, that has already been fulfilled, it's miraculous that something that was foretold in this way did come to pass, but we no longer feel the expectation and the promise that this passage must have brought to those who were waiting for their messiah for so long.

And today's gospel, the famous story of the visitation of Mary to her cousin Elizabeth, is also about expectation, and not just quiet expectation of the future, but openness to it, and excitement about it, and above all, willingness to participate in it. What strikes me about this story is that these two women, both expecting children under unusual and even stressful circumstances, and both of whom had plenty of good reasons to feel ambiguous or uncertain about their futures and their children, what's amazing here is that they could talk with each other so eagerly and with such certainty that what they were doing was part of a larger plan still working itself out.

Christianity is still working itself out, a story that isn't over. We have a future ahead of us that is hard to see. And yet all this talk during Advent about preparing a way for the Lord, about making the world ready for our Messiah to come, about justice for the poor, and about relief for the oppressed, that's all about our future, not the past. We may yet see all these things happen, and if we have given up looking for them Advent is telling us to change our expectations.

So how do we change our attitude about the future? With only a week left in Advent? If the gospel is our example, then attitude change comes with participation. The future will make no sense to us as long as we are only watching it and documenting its failings, and not helping to place one brick on top of the other in all the work of preparation still to be done. Advent is our time to do what Mary and Elizabeth did, to see the possibilities for us and the world clearly and do whatever it takes to participate. Give something away, be reconciled with someone you've given up on, make a change you long ago thought was impossible. The future will come whether we do those things or not, but the world won't be ready for the Messiah unless we do.

The Baptism of Aubrey Castaldo

At Christmas, we celebrate the birth of Jesus, the Savior who came to bring us eternal life. Through Baptism, we are united with Christ, cleansed of sin, and welcomed into His Church—a reflection of the new life He offers. Just as the birth of Christ brought hope to the world, Baptism renews us in His grace and makes us sharers in His divine life. This Christmas, may we give thanks for the gift of our Baptism and the joy of being part of God's family through His Son, born for our salvation.

"I CAN WALK BAREFOOT ON THE BEACH AGAIN"

Local acupuncture clinic is treating the untreatable, peripheral neuropathy with incredible results!

Pain comes in many shapes and sizes. One of the most debilitating being the burning and tingling that comes with peripheral neuropathy. A disease that comes with years of shooting, stabbing pain that gradually ends in numbness, balance problems, and on occasion, amputations. A disease that was once classified as irreparable.

David R. of Venice, FL was facing such a fate.

"I stopped golfing. I wasn't taking walks on the beach with my wife. I was living on gabapentin and antidepressants and everywhere I went; my doctor, the specialists, the pain institute, told me there was no cure. How are you supposed to live your life knowing that everyday brings pain and suffering?"

Peripheral neuropathy is a result of damage to the nerves, commonly caused by a lack of blood flow to the nerves in the hands and feet.

This causes the nerves to begin to degenerate due to lack of nutrient flow.

Most peripheral neuropathy sufferers experience a heightened sensitivity to touch making it almost impossible for those diagnosed to even wear shoes, much less enjoy life.

"It was like walking on sharp river rocks. I barely left my recliner," shares David, whose experience is not uncommon for those diagnosed with peripheral neuropathy.

That is until he found Lauren Milligan of Sage Point Acupuncture & Integrative Medicine. Dr. Milligan and her staff have pioneered a cutting edge, medical solution to treat neuropathy, eliminate or greatly reduce its symptoms and give people their lives back. Best of all, they're doing it without the use of prescription medications and invasive surgeries.

"Acupuncture is incredible at restoring blood flow and stimulating damaged nerves, preventing them from dying off," tells Dr. Milligan. "We take our treatments a step further by integrating ATP Resonance BioTherapy which targets specific nerves in the body using microcurrent. ATP therapy is like watering a plant. This treatment will stimulate the blood vessels to grow back around the peripheral nerves and provide them with the proper nutrients to heal and repair."

Three months later David is thrilled with his progress, "I can walk barefoot on the beach again!"

Success stories like David's are not atypical for the staff at Sage Point AIM. "We have a 87% success rate in treating neuropathy," shares Dr. Milligan.

The number of treatments needed to allow the nerves to fully recover will vary from person to person and can only be determined after a detailed neurological and vascular evaluation. So long as you have not sustained more than 90% nerve damage Sage Point AIM offers hope where there once was none.

While David's peripheral neuropathy was idiopathic, meaning the cause is unknown, Dr. Milligan's treatments can also help people whose neuropathy is caused by diabetes or chemotherapy.

"We have seen tremendous success in treating neuropathy of all types through very personalized treatments, specifically tailored to treat each individual case."

To schedule a consultation and complete evaluation call (941) 451 - 8154 but do so quickly because Sage Point AIM is taking a limited number of new neuropathy patients.

For more information and to take advantage of their new patient offer visit SagePointAcu.com.
